Artsmen Victorious, Amendment Vetoed

The engineers failed on Friday to have their amendment written into the Students' Society constitution, which means that the present representation of Arts and Science on the SEC will stand.

The vote on the amendment was 144 in favour and 135 against, but since this was not the two-thirds majority needed for any constitutional change, the amendment failed. The engineers immediately demanded a recount, claiming that those who counted the vote were mostly students of Arts and Science. The motion for a recount passed, but before this could be taken, several students left and the quorum was dissolved.

The mass exodus came after Marvin Gameroff asked the chairman, Jim Robb, how many members over a quorum were at the meeting. Robb said that there were approximately forty, whereupon Gameroff commented that if all the students of Arts and Science were to leave, the quorum would be dissolved, and no new vote could be taken. Gameroff's advice was taken and several left.

Although a motion for adjournment was defeated by those still present, Robb was forced to declare the meeting closed for lack of a quorum.

Debate on the amendment was heated, with the Presidents of both the Arts and Science and the Engineering Undergraduate Societies defending the position of their respective faculties. The motion was introduced by Marty Collier, the present Engineering representative of the SEC, who argued that the engineers were entitled to equal representation with Arts and Science.

Argument for the amendment centred around this theme of equality, while the point was brought forward that if, as the Engineers insisted, each faculty should have one and only one representative, there were several that were being left out. The School of Social Work, the Faculty of Divinity and of Music, the School of Physical and Occupational Therapy, and the Library School were all cited as being deprived of equal representation, since they are all represented through members from other faculties.

Candidates To Cite Platforms

'Even as the ancient Greeks.' That phrase aptly describes the way that the election rally will be conducted today at 1 p.m. in the Union ballroom. The various election candidates of Arts and Science, Engineering, Commerce and Vice-Pres. of the Union for SEC will present their platforms and all in attendance will have an opportunity to question the aspiring students.

Candidates from Phys-Ed, Architecture, and the Women's Union will also appear but will not speak. All the above will be introduced by David Burke, Chief Returning Officer, who has done a tremendous amount of work in order that everything might run off smoothly. The faculties of Law, Medicine and Dentistry will hear their own candidates who will only speak within their own faculty.

The Arts and Science students will have the widest choice of any faculty with four students, Dick Cowan, Yolne Goldstein, Allison Knox, and Bernard Scharf contesting the two positions. For the Engineers there are Roger Hewson, Joe Katrusiak and Bill Sauve. Commerce has Marv Goldsmith, Peter Silverman and Ken Wright as their candidates. As an added attraction, in the By-election being held to replace Alex Derry as Vice-President of the Union David Feldman, Donald Ryan, Dave Tomlinson and Dan Usher are running.

Swiss Neutrality Topic at Cosmo Club Lecture

"Switzerland and her Neutrality" will be the topic of an address by Dr. P. J. Kaestli, the Swiss Consul General in Montreal, at the weekly Cosmo Club luncheon meeting at 1 p.m. this Wednesday, in the Union Club-room.

The topic deals with the way in which Switzerland protected her neutrality in the last two World Wars, as well as in today's political disputes.

Dr. Kaestli has been connected with the Swiss Foreign Service for many years. His diplomatic career has taken him to London, Shanghai, Munich, Yugoslavia and Lithuania. As consul in Lithuania, he was forced to leave at the request of the Soviet Government after the incorporation of the Baltic States into the USSR, in 1940.

Dr. Kaestli holds a degree of Doctor of Political Science from the University in Bern. He has been Consul General to Montreal since 1947.

The meeting will end before 2 p.m. in time for lectures. Everyone is invited to come and eat their lunch.

U of Manitoba Students Dissatisfied With Council

Manitoba — (CUP) — One third of the student body is satisfied with the University of Manitoba Students Undergraduate council a Manitoban student poll disclosed this week. Thirty-two percent of the students polled felt that the UMSU council was representative of student opinion while 55 percent felt it was not.

Thirty-four percent felt that UMSU council was doing enough for the campus. A limited number were asked an additional question, "Do you think the UMSU council could be abolished, if the sub-committees continued working as they now do." Close to 50 percent felt that it could be abolished.

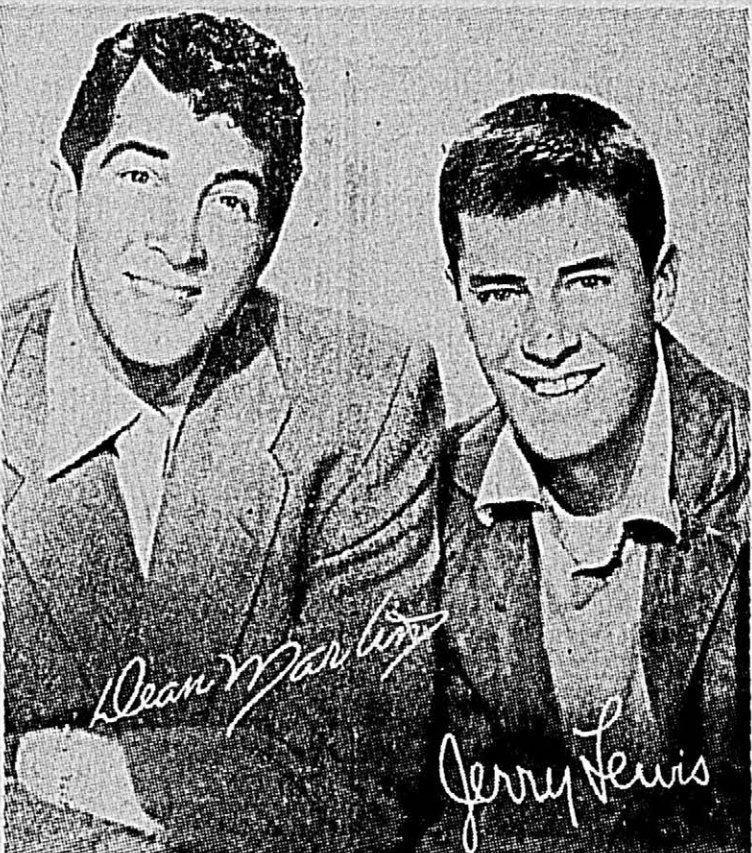

The Manitoban received more support from the students in regard to representing student opinion, 49 percent indicating that it was doing so. Thirty-six percent felt it was not doing so, while 15 percent were undecided.

Some students felt that although the UMSU council was not representative of student opinion, the fault lay with the students, more than with their representatives.

On the other hand, some of the polling personnel were met with blank stares when the word UMSU was presented to a student. They did not know what the initials meant, or what the student government did or had done for them.

President Bocking fared much better here than in a similar poll

COMBINED CHARITIES THIS WEEK

Martin and Lewis Make Donation

Despite the fact that Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis can not be with us in body, they are definitely with the McGill students in spirit. This boost was registered by means of a telegram which the executive of the Combined Charities received a few days ago. The telegram read:

President's Message

In these days of University belt-tightening it may be difficult to understand the desirability of a campus wide charity campaign. While not a state ward as in many European countries, the Canadian university student is certainly no longer a member of a financially privileged class.

He is actually a member of the whole community, in the case of the present Combined Charities campaign of the city of Montreal, and as such has a responsibility to those less fortunate members of the community.

He is also a member of a world wide student community. One third of the total of the present campaign will be used by World University Service to aid students who have not the opportunities available at McGill.

It is on the basis of responsibility as members of two communities that the Combined Charities appeal is being made.

Jim Robb

Dr. B. Zaborski, of the Department of Geography will speak to the University of Saskatchewan Alumni Association, Montreal Branch, on Tuesday, Nov. 24 at 8 p.m. in the Vice Regal Suite of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Professor Zaborski's topic will be "The Soviet Arctic". He will compare the Russian and Canadian Arctic areas.

The difference of the curriculums in the French and English universities was also touched upon by Mr. Audet. In closing he urged all those present to interest themselves in the workings of education because of the mark it leaves on Canada's youth.

The controversial stage of the afternoon was reached when the visitors and hosts were divided into five commissions. The subjects under discussion were: Should religion be taught in schools? Does our educational system enable us to meet the problems of contemporary society? At what age should education become specialized? Does our educational system develop a sense of social responsibility? Are Classics a necessary part of the Modern education?

The exchange trip ended with cocktails and speeches by representatives of the two universities. Jacques Gaboury, Vice President of the U of M, said that "A meeting such as this one is a good way to start a new trend."

He extended his invitation to the members of McGill to visit the French college as often as they wished, saying that they would always be received hospitably and most willingly.

Jim Robb, President of our Students' Society then thanked the students of the U of M for their hospitality. He too, hoped that these visits might become regular and frequent institutions.

The dance is being held in honour of the Players' Club Arena Theatre, the students connected with the elections, and the audience of the play. "But everyone else is invited", continued Mosher.

"As it is the closing performance of 'Legend of Lovers', the cast will be celebrating the end of a successful and demanding week, so the party should be good," a member of the Players' Club was heard to say. In addition, the Union will be playing host to those members of the Students' Society, Men's Union, Women's Union, Scarlet Key and Red Wing Societies who have taken part in the election.

Included in this general classification are those counting ballots, scrutineering, as well as all winning and losing candidates. The House Committee plans to hold regular informal dances on a no-admission basis throughout the year. The first of these were held last Friday and Saturday in the Reading Room, and due to the encouraging turnout, the Union has decided to continue the series.

The presence of an estimated one hundred and sixty students Saturday night has shown that there is a place for these affairs in the undergraduate social program, and several more are scheduled to take place before Christmas.

Mosher pointed out that the dance is ideally suited for those taking in a downtown movie or show, and that attendance is by no means limited to students seeing the play.

Directors of Combined Charities, McGill University, Montreal.

We are certain that the students of McGill University will make this year's Combined Charities drive the largest in the history of the school. We are sorry we can't be on hand to lend more active support but Paramount refuses to let us out of our cages at this time.

Best Wishes, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis
The telegram was accompanied by a token donation of two dollars, a sum though not large, which shows the spirit of the campaign.

CAMPAIGN WEEK
The Combined Charities campaign starts today and will carry on until the end of the week. It is estimated that more than 10,000 day and night students will be approached by the 700 volunteer canvassers. The intricate pattern of the pyramid system used by the canvassing committee this year is geared to perfection. Literature, identification pins and catalogues of students are already distributed to the various group leaders and through them will go to the canvassers.

STUDENTS' DUTY
The greatest part of the committee's work is finished. Everything is organized, every detail has been attended to in theory. Now the whole campaign is in the students' hands. It is up to the students whether it will be a success or a failure. During the last few years the average donation has been two dollars. So far everyone has been generous with either his time, his interest or any other means he possessed.

Within the next six days, every student will be approached. The slogan to remember is "Your Help is Their Hope".

Principal's Message

The Combined Charities Appeal, which opens today, offers to every student of McGill University an opportunity to demonstrate in practical fashion the depth of his or her personal conviction regarding two ideals that are often discussed although, as Mark Twain said about the weather, few people do much about them.

The first of those ideals is cooperation. This Combined Charities Appeal is addressed to Catholics, Jews and Protestants without distinction of religion. It is addressed alike to new Canadians and to those whose ancestors have lived in Canada for generations. In a world where separatism is all too frequently encountered, the McGill family has a chance to show the way to better understanding and more effective cooperation.

The second ideal is that of the Good Samaritan. One third of the proceeds of this campaign will be used, through W.U.S., to help students in other countries. The remainder, through the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant charitable organizations, will be used to help the widows and the fatherless, the sick and the hungry throughout this City of Montreal. How much do we really care?

Fire Drill to be Held Wednesday

A continuous ringing of class bells and sirens will announce the first University-wide fire drill, which is to take place on Wednesday the 25th at 11:50 a.m. The "all clear" will be sounded at 12:05, in case of accidents during the fifteen minute period, either 8355 or 8356 are the numbers to call, where ambulances will be on hand if necessary.

Horn blowing and the screeching of sirens will be but a small factor in the ensuing "blood and thunder" of the manoeuvre. Students are counselled not to be alarmed — St. Catherine Street isn't in flames — this is just standard procedure in a University fire drill!

Laura Reynolds

THE VICE-PRESIDENT of the Women's Union is here to stay, as Laura Reynolds, a third year science student, was re-elected to the post by acclamation last Monday. Laura was first acclaimed on October 9 in a by-election to fill the post until December 31 of this year. She has been an active member of both MOC and the Choral Society. Among her various other duties, the "Keep" will now be responsible for arranging all details for Women's Union elections, and Open Meetings.

DAILY MEETING

A meeting will be held for all Daily staffers tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the Daily offices. All staffers are asked to attend.

BRIAN BOGUE is reading from a list of McGill faculties and School, after the Engineers had suggested that each should have one representative. He also corrected the Engineers' statement that there was only one full-time student in the Faculty of Music.

Society President was cited by the Engineer in their contention that the present SEC was unwieldy because of its size. For this reason, it was emphasized, the Engineers were not asking for two representatives. They thought that their interests could be adequately represented by only one man. They thought that the same was true of the Faculty of Arts and Science.

Arguments from Arts and Science centred around the alleged diversity of the Faculty, the necessity of having representation for Science as well as Arts, and the fact that there was no good reason for changing the status quo. One student began to argue that since Arts and Science is the only Faculty that properly belongs in a university . . . she was stopped from going further by a chorus of objections from the Engineers.

The other argument to the Constitution—that providing for the Women's Union to be represented by the President of the MWSAA rather than any member of the Women's Union, was passed without discussion and without recorded vote. In fact, the President of the MWSAA, has been sitting on the Council as the representative of the Women's Union before this amendment made it automatic.

Revue General Meeting Today

The first general meeting of Red and White crew will take place at 1 p.m. in the Union Club-room. The entire executive will be present as well as John Pratt, director and Brian MacDonald, choreographer. Everyone interested in any aspect of the Revue is asked to attend.

The directors of the Red and White Revue have planned the musical in such a way this year that there will be no excessive rehearsals for any one group. There will not be a rigid script as in the past and through this may entail a higher calibre of talent, it will generally cut down rehearsals a great deal. In this way studies need not suffer and the Revue will be of the same high standard it always has attained.

Casting for the Revue will begin on Tuesday. From 1-3 p.m. on either Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, potential singers and actors are to try out. Dancers will come on Wednesday between 6.30 and 10.30 to the Union Ballroom. They are requested to bring all the necessary equipment: flat shoes and shorts for the girls, running shoes for the men.

Queens University Will Build Men's Residence

Queen's University are to undertake the construction of a men's residence. The first unit only will be built this summer. This will consist of three houses, and will be built at a cost of $600,000. This unit will accommodate eighty students.

A layout now being considered involves a unit of three buildings, each having four floors with fifteen rooms to a floor. Rooms will not be open from a main hallway, but will be centralized for a more homelike atmosphere.

One problem confronting the architects is whether to build in the modern or in the traditional style. A minority of Queens students still cling to the old style. The probable result will be a compromise, using traditional limestone and modern glass.

The decision to approve the construction of the first unit of the residence was reached at a meeting of the trustees. Doctor

CANDIDATES PRESENT PLATFORMS FOR SEC RACE

ARTS AND SCIENCE - ELECT TWO

Dick Cowan

Platform

Since my earliest days at McGill it has been apparent to me that the SEC moves in a mysterious way, it's wonders to perform.

Last year Arts and Science elected Betsy Alexander and Peter Slater as their representatives — how many know oh what committees they served, and in what directions they looked after the interests of the student body? The answers that few do, I am in favour of full coverage by the McGill Daily on all SEC meetings this will serve the double purpose of informing students of what goes on in the SEC — a body which incidentally handles astronomical amounts of money — and also it will insure that those on the SEC remember that they have got important work to do.

As we are all aware, there is a large deficit anticipated by the SEC this year. Of this all I can say now is that, if elected I will try to see that there is, in the interests of economy, no financial butchery of any of the smaller Campus organizations, and at the same time see that all avenues are explored before the drastic step of raising the student's fees is executed.

I will make no rash statements or promises concerning any specific University activities, but I can promise this, that if elected, I will do my utmost to look after the interests of our Faculty and its various affiliated societies.

Yoine Goldstein

Platform

Students are usually quite cynical about election platforms. Grandiose and unfulfillable promises are the order of the day, by these are forgotten as soon as this issue of the Daily sinks to its final resting place on the floor of the Arts Buildings.

So much of S.E.C. activity and executive work that one sits of everyday administrative and executive work that one should first look to a candidate's ability in that field, as exemplified in his past career at the University, rather than to the ambitious plans, valid or not, that he may be formulating.

There are, however, three important fields which demand immediate consideration. They are:

1. The feasibility of establishing a snack bar in the Arts Building, and vending machines in the Biology Building.
2. The necessity of establishing a closer liaison between the Arts and Science Executive and S.E.C.
3. The possibility of establishing a Book Exchange for all students rather than, as is now the case, for only R. V. C. students.

On these three points, and on any others that may arise, I shall, if elected, give the best service I can to the Faculty of Arts & Science and to the University.

Yoine Goldstein

We, the undersigned, unhesitatingly endorse Yoine Goldstein for the position of A. & S. representative to the S.E.C. Since his entrance into McGill three years ago, Yoine has played an active role in all phases of student life. He has held many responsible executive positions, and carried out their related duties willingly and efficiently. These

Allison Knox

Platform

(1) One of the main issues of this campaign is the question of whether Arts and Science should have two representatives on the S.E.C. I should think that this problem could be resolved by having one representative from Arts and one from Science. The Faculty of Arts and Science is too heterogeneous at present to have first-rate faculty spirit. Why should not Arts and Science students, who read for different degrees, each have their separate representative on the S.E.C.? Commerce and Architecture, each of which are nominally parts of large faculties, both have a separate S.E.C. representative, so there would be precedent for such a change.

(2) Although I am opposed to completely explicit coverage of S.E.C. meetings in the Daily, I believe that there are some matters, not involving personalities or highly emotional issues, whose discussion in S.E.C. meetings could be reported in much greater detail by the McGill Daily. I should like very much to see the S.E.C. enter into a thorough investigation of this possibility.

(3) If elected, I shall try to act as an effective liaison between the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society and the S.E.C., and shall represent the students of Arts and Science to the best of my ability.

Bernard Scharf

Platform

In the past two years, I have noticed that it was customary for candidates (not unlike would-be U.S. Presidents) to propose endless lists of campaign promises, which, if elected, they would have no chance to carry out. This is not my intention! The job of faculty representative on the S.E.C. is to consider the large variety of issues which come before the Council during the course of the year, and vote for these that bring the most good to the majority of students.

One of the most important duties of a representative to the S.E.C. is to maintain contact between the Council and the Executive of his own faculty. For this purpose, I pledge myself to perform the job to the best of my ability.

Among other improvements that I visualize, I know we shall all be in favor of "Cheerleaderettes" at our football games!

How about it, fellow students?

Bernard Scharf

Pen Sketch

In nominating Bernie Scharf for Arts and Science representative to the Student's Executive Council we, the undersigned, believe that he possesses the enthusiasm and conscientiousness needed for such a job. We believe him to have all the qualifications necessary for the position. He will bring to this office a keen sense of responsibility and a wholehearted interest in the varied activities of the Student's Executive Council, having been elected to executive positions since his Junior High School days.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, he attended Junior and Senior High School in New Brunswick, New Jersey, home of Rutgers University. He held the elective position of class president, throughout his senior school years, and was chosen a member of the National Honour Society of Secondary Schools in his Junior Year instead of the Senior year, thus breaking all precedents.

His executive ability had further practice at serving as Student Council President, Chairman of the Community Chest Drive, and holding various important positions in School Committees and Clubs: Ex-Alpha NU Gamma (Honorary Biology Society), Point and Award Committee, and Hospitality and Publicity Committee (comparable to the Scarlet Key Society). Besides all these extra-curricular activities, Bernie played in the High School Band and Orchestra.

Adding to his laurels, he still treasures the Admission Certificate to such famous college as Rutgers, Columbia and Yale, spurning a Ford Foundation Scholarship, so that he could move with his family to Montreal and enter McGill University.

Since his entrance to McGill, two years ago, Bernie has been quite active in the Redmen Band, playing Solo Clarinet and following enthusiastically to home, and out-of-town games, playing at basketball and hockey games, as well as for the Winter Carnival.

He remained quiescent as to other campus activities, biding his time until he made a large number of friends and acquaintances, who, we are confident, will come out in droves to vote for "Bernie".

MEDICINE

Colin Forbes

Platform

I sincerely feel that I have had enough experience with campus affairs to enable me to capably represent the Faculty of Medicine in the S.E.C.

I would like:

- 1) To continue to press the need for additional financial aid for the MUS from the SEC, arising out of our student fees. This would foster a proposed improvement of Common Room facilities.
- 2) To bring before medical students the knowledge of the functions of the S.E.C., and to encourage interest in the campus wide activities sponsored by this central body.
- 3) To see that the Bookstore Rebate System inaugurated last year by the S.E.C. be properly administered for the benefit of medical students.
- 4) To claim financial support from the S.E.C. for CAMSI and the Medical Journal.
- 5) To put before the S.E.C. a thorough explanation of medical students' interests, both to further our claim for financial support, and to mitigate any claims of non-participation in campus activities.
- 6) To act in the interest of med students as a whole in formulating decisions on important campus issues.

Colin G. Forbes

We, the undersigned, feel that Colin Forbes is the man of choice for Medicine representative to the S.E.C. His knowledge of campus affairs, mature judgement, and pleasant manner fit him to uphold the interests of the Medical Faculty as well as those of the student body as a whole.

The exact method of dealing with these by the SEC, however, will only become better known by sitting on the Council.

ENGINEERING

Roger D. Hewson

Platform

There are many issues on which I could express an opinion; I chose the following to represent my views as they may be of interest to my fellow engineers.

I think that a more adequate coverage of the S.E.C. meetings should be presented to the student body through the medium of the McGill Daily. Too often in the past, students have been elected to the council and little or nothing has been heard of their activities on the S.E.C. In as much as they are elected by their faculty, their fellow students should be aware of the opinions which are being voiced by their representatives and of the decisions which they reach. Daily coverage of S.E.C. meetings will bring about a greater interest in the executive dealings and will tend to promote a wider voice of opinion on matters which directly concern the student body.

In all sincerity I feel that there should be a change in the faculty representation in favour of the Student Society meeting at which some decision will be made, I shall go no further along this line other than to say that if the issue is voted down, I will continue to look into the question of more balanced representation.

I will try to encourage engineering students to bring suggestions to their S.E.C. representative in order that he may more competently express the feelings of the entire faculty.

Roger Hewson

Pen Sketch

We have placed our full confidence in Roger Hewson. We feel sure that there is no one better suited to represent the Engineering viewpoint.

Roger possesses the rare ability to grasp a problem in its entirety, consider every feature, and follow it through to a logical conclusion — one which, in our experience, has always been beyond reproach. Having once arrived at a decision, he has demonstrated to us the ability to present a clear, lucid, and above all, a persuasive argument in favour of his convictions — an argument which is biased only by a genuine concern for the engineers' interest.

It must be realized that the engineering representative to the S.E.C. will incur much more responsibility than merely upholding his faculty's interests. He will head many organizational subcommittees of the S.E.C., and previous experience in such work will be invaluable. Such experience is Roger's. For the past three years he has helped organize many of McGill's Ski Meets. In addition to being a top member of the Ski team. Due to an injury sustained while representing McGill, Roger will not be on ski this year and has expressed to us the desire to devote this new potential in time towards the fulfillment of a task such as would be incurred by a member of the S.E.C.

We have placed our full confidence in Roger Hewson.

Platform

In writing a platform for a position such as that of S.E.C. representative I find I must watch what I say because promises are apt to become embarrassing at a later date. If elected I would be part of a council and my views as to major changes in policy would obviously be easily over-ruled. It is with in mind that I mention the following points on which I think that we engineers are not getting our just due.

Firstly, The McGill Daily does not serve the clubs and societies within the Engineering faculty with nearly the eagerness with which it pushes Arts and Science clubs and societies. My suggestions regarding this point would include the publishing of an all-Engineering issue of The Daily twice yearly.

Secondly, I think that student interest on campus in general depends a great deal on the reception accorded freshmen in the fall of each year. The frosh — especially engineers — should be hazed to a certain extent and organized as a group with their own class presidents, etc. (remembering that in Engineering, the freshmen seldom join the branch clubs). This would encourage them to take part in E.U.S. activities when they enter McGill instead of neglecting them until their Junior and senior years.

Thirdly, I believe that something should be done to make the events sponsored by the Students' Society come at least close to breaking even financially. This year's budget for an $8000. loss seems to point to the fact that the S.E.C. is attempting to sponsor too many organizations, and therefore should be persuaded, perhaps, to restrict its benevolence.

Above all, I promise to do my job as liaison between the E.U.S. and S.E.C. to the best of my ability, and to always fight for the rights of the Engineers!

We believe that Joe Katrusiak is the man who should be the students' choice for E.U.S. representative to the S.E.C.

Bill Sauvé

Platform

The Engineering Faculty at McGill constitutes roughly 25% of total student registration. How odd is it then, that we engineers show little of the spirit that was so evident a few years ago at Dawson College?

If elected as the Engineering Representative on the Students' Executive Council I intend to do my utmost to restore this fading characteristic to the campus.

I feel that this can only be accomplished by diligent support of all major campus activities, including the Blood Donor Clinic, the McGill Combined Charities Campaign and others. I think we should all feel ashamed of losing the Blood Race for the past two years. What has happened to us Engineers?

Every year the question has arisen as to the fairness of representation of the Engineers on the Students Executive Council. As you know, Arts & Science has only one. I feel it is of highest importance to lend my full support to the matter of equality in representation.

In closing I can only promise that, if elected, I will support the Engineers fairly and participate to the utmost of my ability in the total work of the Students Executive Council.

Bill Sauvé came to McGill from Loyola College, where he graduated with a B.Sc. degree. During his years at Loyola he was prominent in campus activities and, since his arrival at McGill he has continued to show interest and ability in student affairs.

In his own faculty, this year he was elected vice-president of the Mechanical Engineering Society, and because of the constitutional ruling he will automatically become president next year. Bill held the office of president of the McGill Newman Club during the past year. He is presently working on the Combined Charities Campaign in the Engineering Faculty.

Platform

The S.E.C. apart from being an administrative body, should have creative ideas and remain open to broad issues.

In furtherance of this principle, I shall do my best to promote the cause of Canadian Students' unity, and to this end help out NFCUS concretely.

I shall endeavour to call upon the Council, the McGill campus and Canadian Universities to organize strong student manifestations in order to express our deep concern over the attitude of the Provincial Government as regards the Federal grants to Quebec Universities.

To the best of my ability, I will establish closer relationship between the Faculty of Law and the rest of the University, so as to enhance the prestige of an already famed and respected faculty.

Conscious of the magnitude and the difficulties of my task, I pledge myself to fulfill my responsibilities seriously and to welcome gladly further suggestions.

Perhaps the customary approach to S.E.C. membership is to labour in great detail those issues which threaten or enhance student interests. I believe that these matters cannot be weighed too accurately before they have reached the Council level; therefore I shall limit myself in making specific promises and dedicate myself to making the best contribution possible, if I am elected.

The Law Faculty does, however, have problems which are peculiar to itself, particularly since it is separated from the campus generally. There is a distinct need for closer liaison between L.U.S. and the S.E.C. in order to present their requests adequately.

I feel that law students do not share in S.E.C. grants which might improve intra- and inter-faculty activity on a plane commensurate with their student society fees.

Certainly one issue which still demands attention is the parking problem around the Law Faculty; reasonable adjustments are in order to reduce involuntary contribution to the Police's Dail. But the variety of problems which an S.E.C. member is called upon

Platform

If elected to the position as representative for the Law Faculty on the Students' Executive Council, I will endeavour to put into practice the following proposals:

- 1.—To represent my fellow students' interests to the fullest extent, and be ready to hear their suggestions on all matters of policy.
- 2.—To encourage inter-university exchange of ideas.
- 3.—To advance the project of a new Student Union, which I feel is necessary for expansion of campus activities.

I trust that you will keep these proposals in mind when voting for the representative of the Law Faculty.

John Todd

John Todd has been attending McGill for the past six years, and during that time has garnered considerable experience in student affairs. He served for three years in the McGill COTC, with two years as a member of its Mess Committee. He rose to the rank of Senior Staff Writer on The Daily, and has been an enthusiastic member of such campus

ARCHITECTURE

Dusty Baxter

Pen Sketch

Dusty came to McGill in 1949 from St. Helen's School where she was a prefect and house president. While at McGill she has at various times been active in the Swimming Club, the Blood Donor Clinic, the Annual, and the Winter Carnival.

In 1952-53 she was class treasurer for fourth year Architectural Exhibition Committee.

We, the undersigned, believe that her abilities qualify her to represent Architecture on the S.E.C. in an enthusiastic and efficient manner.

Platform
The S.E.C. is supported by 6000 students and yet it is unable to exercise its duty to the undergraduates as fully as possible. I feel that its power should be strengthened so that it can more firmly convey the wishes of the student body to the university authorities.

I feel that the Finance Director should keep a closer watch on the allocation of student money. Club budgets should be scrutinized carefully and money allotted on the basis of need.

Many students can benefit from informal talks and discussions given by professional men in the fields that they (the students) intend to enter. I therefore feel that Gen-Nites should be strongly encouraged. Many students are undecided as to what they will do upon leaving college, and for them the Gen-Nites should prove especially valuable. For the same reason Commerce Tours should be kept up and, if possible, increased.

The Union is being satisfactorily run, and everyone can see that improvements are being made. I would like to see the co-operation between the S.E.C. and the Union Executive maintained. Finally, if elected I pledge myself to carry out my duties and responsibilities to the very best of my ability.

Peter Silverman is a third year commerce student who has been active in many college functions. Last year he was secretary of the Commerce Undergraduate Society and also worked on the Blood Drive Committee.

This year he is Interfaculty Debating Representative for Commerce and is working in the Combined Charities Campaign. We are pleased to vouch for his ability and genuine interest in the S.E.C., and his record of past experience.

We are confident that Peter will do a competent job as Commerce Rep. and considering his experience, and our knowledge of him, are convinced that he is the man for the job.

Platform
I do not believe that a platform should be the most important consideration in electing a candidate to the S. E. C. It is easy to make grandiose promises on the basis of little experience, which are usually forgotten as soon as this issue of The Daily sinks to its final resting place, but there are three points that I believe need some investigation:

1. The reason for the $14,000 deficit incurred by The AdLib.

2. The reason why the general trend among students of all faculties is to sign up for Commerce tours. This practice draws heavily upon the Commerce budget and I feel that the S. E. C. could and should subsidize the Commerce Undergraduate Society to a greater extent.

3. All capital repairs to the Union should be undertaken on a long term policy, thus spreading a major expense over a period of years.

I elected my chief effort will be to represent the better interests of the Faculty of Commerce on the Council, and at the same time, by sincere co-operation, I shall try to see that these interests coincide with a sound policy for the University at large.

I shall endeavour to keep in close contact with student opinion in my faculty. In order that the opinions of Commerce students may receive a fair hearing on the Council.

Kenneth H. Wright.

Pen Sketch

It is with great confidence that we present Ken Wright as candidate for the Commerce Representative on the Student Executive Council and we feel that we have found the "Wright" man for the job.

Ken entered McGill in 1951 after graduating from T. C. S. where he had an outstanding scholastic, administrative and athletic record. At McGill he has maintained the standard by being a member of the McGill football team from 1951 to 1953 and by working on the Winter Carnival. Ken Wright has devoted much of his time and ability to campus affairs as President of Second Year Commerce, 1952, and as a member of the Scarlet Key Society.

The position of Commerce Representative on the S. E. C. requires wide experience in financial and accounting matters in which Ken is well versed. For the past three years he has maintained a high grade in Accounting and has received extensive experience during the past three summers by being associated with the financial aspects of a large western resort hotel.

Janet Cross, a resident of Montreal, attended Westmount High before coming to McGill. At Westmount High, Janet participated in class sports, was president of the Red Cross, president of the glee club, and an active member in both the Current Events Club and the H-Y Club.

In her final year Janet was presented the Award of Honour which is given to the most all-round girl in scholastic and non-academic activities. She was also awarded a pin for "outstanding service" to the school.

Janet has proven to those who have gone through school with her, and also to those who have met her only a few weeks ago, that she is the right calibre for the Women's Union. If you want a good student, a conscientious worker, and a person full of personality elected to the Women's Union, elect Janet Cross.

A third year science student, Barbara is a graduate of Trafalgar School for Girls, where she took part in many sports as well as being Class President.

Since she came to McGill Barbara has continued to take part in sports as well as being very active in the Women's Union. She has worked for the Rooms Registry and has been a Big Sister besides various other less publicized activities in the Women's Union, which have given her an insight into the workings of the organization.

Barbara, a friendly, hard working girl, would be an asset as Member-At-Large. She is capable, enthusiastic, and can be depended upon to complete any job which she undertakes with quiet efficiency. In 1952, Barbara Notkin entered McGill from Strathcona Academy with a University Scholarship, having placed first in the Provincial Matriculation exams with 926 marks. During her four years of high school she was active in all phases of school life, and in her last year was presented with the Eaton's Award for outstanding contributions to high school activities.

Barbara continued her program of extra-curricular activities in her first year at McGill, where she joined The Daily staff and worked her way up through the position of desk, to night editor. She also was elected to the Red Wing Society where she worked hard to finally accomplish the 30 assignments necessary to become eligible for her white jacket. In addition Barbara assisted in the make-up department of the Red and White Revue, and also found time to spend many happy Sunday mornings with the MOC Riding Club.

This year she is C.U.P. Features Editor for The Daily and is a member of the Red and White Committee, for which she was in charge of Freshman at registration. She holds the position of Recording Secretary of The Arts and Science Undergraduate Society Executive, to which she was elected last spring.

Barbara has worked on philanthropic projects as well this year, namely on the executive of the Combined Jewish Appeal. She is also on the Governing Board of Hillel as membership chairman. Barbara is at present connected with WUSC as she organized the presentation of colour slides of India, taken by Bob Paulette during his trip last summer to the WUS Indian seminar.

Eve was born in Gananoque, Ontario and lived there during her public school days. She then went to boarding school at Bishop Strachan School in Toronto where she was active in sports, playing on the first basketball, the swimming and lacrosse teams, as well as being editor of the school book, and a prefect, in her final years.

For one summer Eve worked in a store learning tact and diplomacy while selling cashmere sweaters to American tourists. The next year was spent as swimming instructor and life guard at a children's beach on the St. Lawrence River. After her Senior Matriculation exams, she took time out and spent the summer touring the west — Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, and a ranch outside Calgary. This summer, as a flight cadet in the URTP, Eve was sent to London Ontario and to St. John's Quebec. At London she met girls from eleven universities from UBC to Mount Allison, and so learned more about Canada.

We feel that the diversity of her interests and activities would make Eve a useful and helpful member of the Women's Union for this year. Her experience in such varied fields would enable her to be of great assistance in whatever work is appointed to her. We believe that Eve as Member-at-Large would be a great success.

4) Reopen discussion towards construction of the new Union closer to the Medical Building—we pay for it, so why not get more use from it.

5) It is my feeling that apathy is a product of ignorance. We are accused of the former, but the answer lies in a solution of the latter. Accordingly, more complete coverage of discussions occurring at SEC meetings should appear in the Daily, and meetings should be open to interested observers — I propose to work toward these ends. In this way the general student body will become more aware of the problems faced by the SEC and should become more interested in their government, those who spend their money and decide on other policy.

Arthur N. Freedman.

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned, heartily endorse the candidacy of Art Freedman for the position of Medical Representative to the SEC, and consider him to be most able to fulfill the requirements of that capacity.

After graduating from the High School of Montreal, he crossed the street into Arts in 1947. During four years, he won numerous scholarships and medals, graduating with the Lieutenant-Governor's Silver Medal and Great Distinction in the General Course. Along with these scholastic achievements, he found time to write sports for the Daily, serve on the Winter Carnival Committee, become an executive in Arts and Science from which he received an award for service, was elected to the Scarlet Key, later serving as an advisor to that body, and also was elected to the presidency of his fraternity.

While in medicine, he has continued his scholastic attainments, and was recently elected to Alpha Omega Alpha. At present, he is secretary treasurer of the McGill Medical Journal, and is on the Medical Ball Committee. Through his efforts last year, he helped to make that event the most successful one in the history of the Faculty. In addition, he has participated actively in intramural athletics.

It is readily seen, therefore, that his combination of ability, experience, and conscientiousness make Art Freedman a very suitable Medical Representative to the SEC.

MEN'S UNION

Dave Tomlinson

Platform

Over the period of years that I have been at McGill I have read many platforms of aspiring Union Presidents and Vice-Presidents. Much has been promised — I have read fantastic pipe dreams and of logical innovations, sometimes these various promises and panaceas have borne fruit, more often they lie forgotten in back copies of the Daily.

It has been obvious to me following numerous visits to the Union this year that the President is doing a first-rate job and he is to be congratulated, but it is equally obvious to me that there is much that can still be done to improve and strengthen the Union. I am not criticising the obvious lack of facilities — these are problems of both money and space — I am merely deploring the general atmosphere of unfriendliness and discomfort. I would like to see everybody, not just the small and stalwart bunch of Regulars, making full use of the Union.

Space allows me to cite only a few ways in which this can be done — Invite well-known Montreal personalities to give lunch-hour speeches (there are many, be they men of business, of sport, or of arts, who would be both pleased and flattered). Inaugurate Pool and Ping Pong competitions, hold more informal dances, encourage various societies to hold exhibitions and displays, have more magazines (both new and old) available discourage active hooliganism and bad manners, keep the place clean, and provide more varied appetising menus.

If I am elected I hope no one will hesitate to come to me with their criticisms and suggestions, I will see that the plans for the New Union continue to be energetically carried out and that full attention be given to the proposed new location of pool tables, and I will do my utmost to get McGill to meet McGill in the Student's Union.

David Fieldman

Platform

I would like to thank the students who have placed their confidence in me, by nominating me as Vice-President of the McGill Union. If I am elected, I shall try to live up to what is expected of me.

GENERAL POLICY

There should be an increase of recreational facilities such as ping pong, television, billiards, cards, and an enlarged space for the office of campus activities.

A new Union Policy should be adopted, as it was many years ago. It was then just a club for the male members of the university, and the atmosphere in the building then was much quieter than it is now.

The buying of more folding chairs should be completed, because they are urgently needed, due to the ever increasing number of activities and clubs on the campus.

The Lounge on the Second Floor could very well do with more up to date magazines, and that radio — well it could do with a lot of repair.

If I am elected as the McGill Union Vice-President, I shall do my best to see that there is a more wholesome atmosphere for those who make use of the Union, and I shall also try to make it a place to where every student can be proud to go.

From This Corner

By Irwin Lewis

This is Where We Came In!

Do you like travelling? Wouldn't you jump at the opportunity to see this fair Dominion of ours, for nothing at all, if the occasion arose? Sure you would, and, who would be silly enough to pass up such an opportunity? Well, a certain piece of silverware, called the Yates Trophy, just refuses to budge from its place over at London, where it was free to leave last Saturday, if a certain squad, the Varsity Blues paid its way. The price — one football victory over the same Western Mustangs.

What with all the improved methods of transportation, one would think that this trophy, so much in demand these days would have taken itself on a few trips, but it has remained at "home" in London for eight out of the last ten years, taking the trouble to go over and have a look at the Queen City, the other two. Apparently it prefers London, however, and has taken a "lease" on a Western "apartment" for another year at least. With the high rentals these days we hear it's boarding with some gent. — John Metras they say his name is. Isn't it a shame that this little silver symbol refuses to give us a square deal and let us all have a look! Why we'll show our Montreal generosity and offer it one year's free accommodation, just as soon as the Western "lease" expires.

It was a sad day for Bob Masterson and an equally joyous one for John Metras, who has brought the Yates trophy back to London so often that they ought to give it to him for his birthday. Masterson's Blues were in the lead, when in the dying moments of the game Western's quarterback, Don Getty, heaved a tremendous pass to Murray Henderson who went the rest of the way for a touchdown and the championship. Down 8-7 at the time, Metras' squad were passing in desperation, knowing very well they had everything to gain and nothing to lose as time was quickly running out.

What Could Be Worse?

Had the final Western score come on a long downfield march it really wouldn't have been so bad, strange as it may sound. But here was a team, Toronto, who hadn't had a touchdown scored on them all year via the passing route. Finally one is scored and the result (or the cost) is a loss of the championship. There's only one morale to this story — a football game isn't over until the very last whistle. One more thing was illustrated by Saturday's game, truth still is, and always will be, a lot more stranger than fiction.

The last few weeks of football action have convinced more and more people that predicting the outcome of games is quite hazardous. Who would have expected the McGill Redmen to come up with such an upset win over the Mustangs? Actually this started off a chain reaction in the Mustangs' favor as they were so fired up for Saturday's Intercollegiate final, that they refused to be stopped, and came up with a story book finish that won't be forgotten for years to come.

Toronto was caught completely flatfooted and to the utter amazement of the 15,000 fans at Varsity Stadium, Henderson ran for the TD, and brought the bacon home for the Mustangs once more. It was a great season for the Mustangs and the Blues. One that saw a tremendous upsurge of the Queen's Gaels, league doormats for so many seasons prior to this one.

As for McGill, well, it is a debatable point. A lot more was expected of the team than they actually did produce. Why that was, is anyone's guess, although "on paper" the squad looked pretty formidable, especially the backfield which seemed to rate high in the books of many. Sure the team ended with six points, a .500 average, in a third place tie with Queen's but the 34-0 and 25-8 beatings don't compliment any squad. If one stops to think, had we beaten Queen's in the tilt that they came out on top by a 13-12 count, we actually would have ended in a second place tie with Western, and had to play off with the Mustangs. Then again other factors were involved. Take for example the Western win two Saturdays ago. The Redmen were playing heads up ball, then what did they have to lose? For them it meant nothing to lose, as many had already conceded and, since all the pressure was on the Western squad, who were battling for first place in the Intercollegiate league, the Redmen were only too willing to throw a monkey wrench into Metras' title hopes. Well they started off on the right foot by putting up a tremendous fight and winning 16-13. However, if the Redmen were battling for second place tie with Western, as would have been the case had they beaten Queen's a few weeks previously, the pressure would have been on and the outcome might have been a lot different. These Metras teams have a habit of coming through when the chips are down — ask Bob Masterson.

Alouettes Eliminated

Another team bit the dust this past weekend as the Montreal Alouettes dropped their tilt 22-11 to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who had already won the first game 37-12 in Hamilton last Wednesday. This gave the Tiger-Cats the right to advance to the Grey Cup final this Saturday against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who handily disposed of the Toronto Balmy Beach squad 24-4. It is a little strange that the CRU doesn't eliminate this game altogether, especially when the team involved is a farm team of one of the Big Four Squads.

Winnipeg reached the Grey Cup game with a story book finish as well, capitalizing on a bonched Eskimo play, to score a TD which gave them a 30-24 win over the Edmonton Eskimos, whose quarterback, Claude Arnold has made a habit of pulling "boners" at crucial moments, these past two years. Arnold elected to pass, instead of kick for a single point or try a field goal. The pass was intercepted by a Blue Bomber who lateralled to Tom Casey. Casey, a fleet back, ran the ball right down the field for the winning score.

Western Jinx

This Winnipeg win has kept the jinx in the Western Conference intact. Namely, the team that wins the first game, in the best of three playoff, has gone on to lose the next two. Edmonton ran away from the rest of the pack during the regular schedule and were expected to be the West's Grey Cup representatives. But, like everything else this season that was a supposedly "sure thing" fell by the wayside and the old faithful Blue Bombers came East once again.

Our Alouettes provided no such story-book finish, although they came very close. Injuries finally caught up to the battling crew who were thoroughly outclassed in the second half by the Hamilton squad, although tied 11-11 late in the game. The Als put on a few terrific stands throughout the game, and the presence of big "Tex" Coulter sure pleased both his teammates and the capacity crowd. Hamilton now advances to the Grey Cup game but, for a team who wasn't expected to do too much, the Als sure made a tremendous hit with the fans for their valiant showing in are face of so many serious injuries.

Hockey

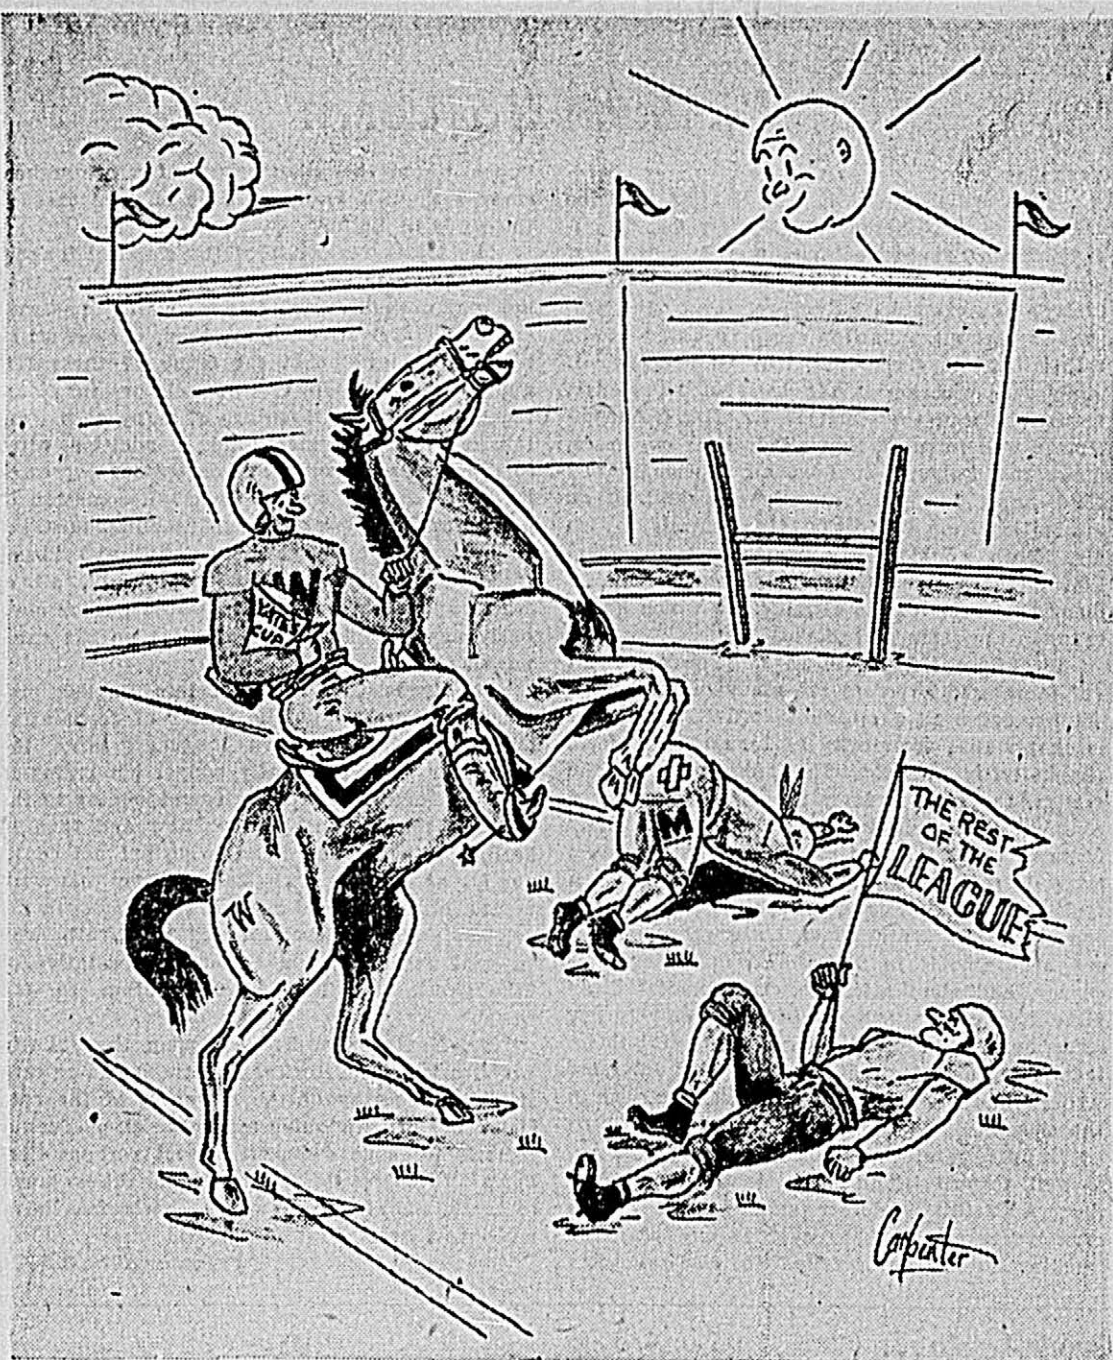

Getting closer to home, Rocky Robillard should have a pretty good year with his hockey sextet who are practicing steadily now, before getting down to "brass tacks" very soon. The "Rock" has a number of boys back from last years squad which came along in fine style during the second half of the schedule. Herb English, who was ineligible last year, has turned out with the squad, and his presence should preatly boost the teams title hopes.

Basketball

Intermediate and Senior Basketball players are asked to report to the lecture room in the gym TODAY at 5 P.M. to sign eligibility cards.

Intramural Squash

All those who wish to compete in the Intramural Squash Tournament have until Tuesday Evening to register. Contestants may register at either the Athletics' Office or the racquet room in the Currie Gym.

Storybook Finish Highlights Intercollegiate Final Tilt

The Mustangs from the University of Western Ontario, trailing 8-7 with only 40 seconds of play remaining in their sudden death playoff against the Varsity Blues for the intercollegiate football title, clicked on a pass play from Don Getty to Murray Henderson which went for 45 yards and a touchdown to keep the Yates Cup for another year. This was the Mustang's seventh title in the last nine years.

Varsity went into the game definitely favored to relieve defending champion Western of the crown. They boasted of the flashiest backfield in the college loop with Steve Oneschuck, Bill McFarlane, Al Haig, quarter Ed Skrzypek and full back Phil Muntz. Muntz, "the crusher", had averaged 6.55 yards per carry before this game and had gained over 100 yards pushing in each of his last three performances.

Underdog Western had lost their last two outings. Two weeks before they were beaten by Varsity 12-0, and a week later McGill edged them out 16-13. They were depending heavily on all star

Western moved ahead 7-6 just before the half on a single by Thompson. Toronto came back in the third to tie the game 7-7 with Oneschuck kicking the rouge. It was a new ball game going into the final quarter.

Al Haig kicked another single at the start of the period and Varsity, leading 8-7, held the Mustangs until Getty tossed his touchdown pass to break the game wide open. Incidentally, Getty was being rushed on his passes all game and managed to complete only five in 14 attempts. His front line held, however, on that final do or die play and he had all the time in the world.

The Blues had the edge in first downs with 16 but were stopped by a hard charging London line when they got into Mustang territory. Quarterback Ed Skrzypek completed four passes in 10 attempts with no interceptions.

Lionel Whitman Elected Track Captain For 1954-55

By Morrie Shohet

Lionel Whitman, veteran letterman of the McGill senior track and field team, was elected captain of the 1954-55 edition at the annual track supper held at the home of former track coach F. M. Van Wagner last Thursday evening. It has become a habit with Mr. Van Wagner over the years to invite the track and harrier teams to a turkey dinner at the end of the outdoor season and the boys really appreciate it.

Lionel won two intercollegiate crowns this year in the shot put and discus throw. In the former he shattered the existing mark by over two feet and set the new record at 46 feet 8 inches. He heaved the discus 127 feet to win that even too. It came as no surprise when he was chosen captain by his teammates.

Some movies that were earlier in the season were that night. It gave the boys a chance to see themselves in action and watch for possible improvements in their styles.

Track coach Howie Ryan is hoping to run some indoor meets up at the Gym this Winter to serve as tune ups for the indoor track championships up in Hamilton and Montreal's Canadian Legion track meet. McGill had a team entered in both last year. They managed to get a third in the mile relay race up in Hamilton and a second in the same race in the Legion meet.

Dave Winship and John Sanderson are the two returning quarter milers from the 1952 relay team and will be set to go again this year. With Peter

Reid and Bill Duanne, both promising rookies to fill the remaining two berths, our relay team may do well again.

Six boys were sent to Hamilton last year and the same number, budget allowing, will be sent this year. As many boys as wish to enter may do so in the Legion meet at the Forum.

If enough boys are in shape, Howie Ryan plans to hold an invitation meet against another school before the Christmas vacation. Six or seven events may be run in the Gym, including sprints and middle distance events. If not enough interest is shown it will have to be held over until January. Times that the Gym will be open to tracksters will be published in future editions of the Daily.

Clyde Whitman and Ian Ruthenford were the managers for the team over the past season and both fellows deserve a round of thanks for the tremendous job they did in assisting Howie Ryan. A lot of time and effort went into their work of keeping the team in smooth working order.

Waterloo Crew Plays YMHA Blues Tonight

By Les Jonas

The McGill waterpolo contingent tackles the YMHA Blues at 8.30 tonight in the Memorial Pool. If the game will have any semblance to the last tilt between the Reds and the Blues it will be a torrid contest to the very end.

The Y has quite a starry crew. Kastner, Goldberg, Hoffman, Klacko and Luxembourg are all veterans of note. What's more, they take advantage of the referee's weak points (his eyes) and make a field-day of the game. But Norm Ashton's boys showed determination to win the last one and should be able to show something to win tonight.

In fact, not only tonight but the next few weeks look like win-weeks for the McGill team. Thus far this season the Central Y have been the only bunch successful in downing our game Red crew. We don't meet Malcolm Ross' outfit again until January 28th.

McGill meets the YMHA Blues twice this week and next week take on cellar-dwelling Concordia. We've beaten both teams before and should be able to ditto these performances.

The next time we meet the Dominion Champions is in January but we meet the Intercollegiate Champions on December 5th. The three losses McGill has suffered at the hands of the YMCA become irrelevant when the opponents in the pool are Toronto.

The City League has proved to be quite good training grounds for Ashton's aquapolists. They are in far better shape than they were at this time last year. Jack Novick is in his third year with the crew and hasn't slackened his pace a bit. Jerry Shiller banged in five goals the other day versus Concordia to show us that his shooting arm has also limbered up.

Krka, who plays between Novick and Shiller to center the forward line, has taken the longest to get into top trim. He's near there now, however, and by the time we meet Toronto should be quite a threat. Krka has a lot of potential, having long arms and being able to throw the ball from almost any position.

Gonler Hops has been showing better this year than in the past two seasons and if he keeps it up until December 5th Toronto may be quite surprised. Robbie Cook is also playing fine polo. At home, he plays a terrific two-way game.

Little has to be said about McGill's defences. They are good. Steinberg and Rosenberg make a perfect defensive duo, checking the opponents in fine fashion.

So far, two subs have figured in the scoring. Kolodny has
